GOOL VA BOOLBOOL THE ROBE AND THE NIGHTINGALE. Gool-Gool, the sweet Rose Is the prettiest flow'r That beauteously blows In the loveliest bow'r Of bright Goolistaun-Of the blooming Rose-bow'r --Tis the emblem of Truth In the garden of youth-In Goolzaur-e-javaun-

In youth's happy bow'r ! Boulbool-the Nightingale, Sings sweetest of all The gay birds of the Vale, Whose soft melodies fall From Boolboolistaun-From the Nightingale's bow'r-

On the ears of the Rose That so beauteously blows In bright Goolistaun-In her blooming Rose-bow'r Say-which sweet songster knows Of all birds of the Vale,

What whispers the Rose To her own Nightingale, From bright Goolistaun-From her blooming Rose-bow'r-That all the night long He warbles his song From Bootbootistaun-From the Nightingale's bow'r Of the Rose's soft spell O'er her own Nightingale

Not a warbler can tell Of all birds of the Vale Of Bootboolistaun-Of the Nightingale's bow'r-What whispers the Rose The Peri sole knows, In far Peristaun-In her wild fairy bow'r!

VARIETY.

E. M. D.

A Preacher wants to know what becomes of the wicked? Usually they practice law for a while and eventually go to the legislature. Says an exchange: "Any family men who ays he is too poor to take a newspaper should be indicted for obtaining a family on false pretenses." He was bound to be accurate, and he described the woman's costume thus : " She wore an elegant suit of something or other, cut bias, and trimmed

Some mean fellow after saying there is one physician in every 800 inhabitants, adds that they begin this way, but after a while there are not so many inhabitants.

A Chicago man who was detected in an attempt to conceal a deep excavation in his front yard by a thin covering of lath and snow, finally admitted that he was building an Ashtabula bridge for his mother-in-law.

Why is the Czarine Catherine like a baldheaded person? You see at once; of course; so obvious you know—to everybody up in the Muscovite court gossip. Why, because her heir is Orlot.—Graphic.

Philadelphia Bulletin :- Those auburn-haired young ladies with noses suggestive of a cold morning, and who missed fire during the leap year just passed, now eadly sing, "It may be four years and it may be for ever."

His last words to her in the morning were : "Wrap up warmly, darling, if you go shopping to-day; the weather is very cold." She said she would, and before she went out she had all her bustles weighed and put on the heaviest one. What will not a woman do for the man she loves! -Brooklyn Argus.

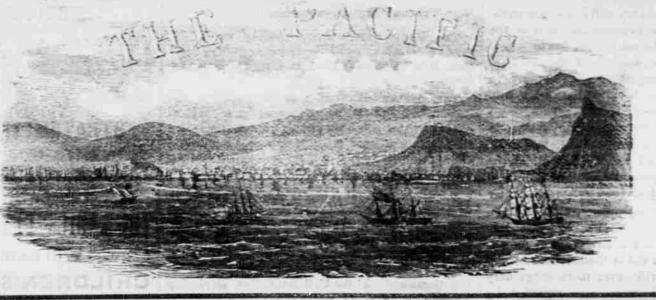

He was a very absent-minded young man and had been in the habit of bringing her confec-tionery when he called. After he had denarted the other night she opened the package and found three soiled handkerchiefs, a pair of socks, a "Gen. Warren" collar, and a note asking to have them washed and ironed by to-morrow night. The candies were left at the laundry. The girl says she never did care much for him.

A lady a short time back presented a telegram at a London postoffice. The message was enclosed in an envelope. On receiving it the official proceeded to open it. "What are you about?" exclaimed the lady. The clerk explained that he could not send a message without first seeing it. "Then," observed the lady, angrily, "do you suppose I'm going to let you read my private affairs? I won't send it at all!" And forthwith she flounced out of the office in

A West Hill man got up in a vague state of mind the other morning, and feeling around in the dark for his socks, get hold of his wife's striped stockings. When he pulled them on and stretched them up he felt so completely dressed that he didn't think of putting on anything else, but went moving around until he found a lamp, and fell to the flour in a fit of terror at the sight of his legs. When they restored him to consciousness, they couldn't make him believe that the house hadn't been burglarized by a circus clown or an escaped convict, because he said, "I saw him the minute I struck the match, just as plainly as I see you now. Nobody is safe in these awful times."

It is so hard to do good! On New Year's day a young man took a solemn yow that, so belp him, he would for the rest of the year tell the truth, let the consequences be what they might. The consequences have been somewhat serious, and not at all agreeable. He declined to take a drink with a stalwart inebriate and when the stalwart inebriate said, sneeringly, " I suppose you won't drink because you think I'm drunk?" he truthfully answered in affirmative, and had such a head erected on him by the stalwart inebriate that he has to step into his shirt at the neck. He told an ardent Democrat who asked him for his candid opinion concerning the Presidential election, that Hayes was elected. and when his sweetheart asked him if she was not looking horribly old, said that she was. He is a lawyer, and when a client came to him and said, " Now, candidly, what do you think of my case?" he replied, "I think it's a swindle, myself," whereupon the indignant client withdrew his patronage, which was considerable. Altogether, he has had a very hard time of it and begins to feel discouraged.—[Los Angeles Star.

THAT CHEW OF TOBACCO.-Tobacco chewing is a hard habit to break off. There was once a man who made up his mind to quit chewing and he flung his tobacco away. He got gentain and chewed it; he bought chamomile flowers, he chewed toothpicks and quills, and still nothing satisfied him. His mouth tasted as if it was full of cold cream. The very tip of his tongue seemed to curl over in the intensity of his desire for tobacco. He wanted it-oh! how badly. And so he bought another piece. He held it up and looking at it said: " Are you my master, or am I yours? Yum-m-m. I want you. [Another glaring gaze at the slab.] But I'm a man; you're a weed-you're a thing. [Look again] Yum-m-m. You black devil, I'll master you if I die for it. It shall never be said of me that as a man am mastered by a thing. Yum-m" [Puts it into his pocket.] Every time he wanted a chew, he'd take it out, talk to it, and it got easier and easier, till at last he threw it away, and the glory of the victory paid for all the suf-fering he had.—[Gough's St. Louis Lecture.

KEALAKEKUA BAY HAWAII. THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS ARE noted the world over for their unrivaled salabrity of climate. Certain localities in the group are especially favored in this way.—The District of Rome, on the leeward side of Hawaii, has long ocen famed as a place of resort for invalids with bronchital, or long diseases. With its pure and mild atmosphere, with its absolute freedom from atorms or high winds, with its porous soil which, with all its rich vegetation, relains no dampness and yields no malaria, and with an unvarying temperature—that of the American or Southern European June—ALL THE YEAR ROUND, the climate of Kona is one of the healthlest and most juxurious on the globe.

climate of Kena is one of the neathness and most recurrent the globe.

The undersigned, at his house at Kaawalos, a house unequaled in the district for size, classificess, commodicioness, and thoroughness of furnishing, is prepared to give boarders excellent rooms and all obtainable comforts in the way of diet.

THERE ARE PRESH WATER BATHS on the premises, and fine sea bathing within a short distance. The steamer Klianea and the schooners Ullama and Prince, run regularly between Honolalu and the Kaawaloa landing.

The undersigned employs no agenta nor runners. His house speaks for itself upon inspection.
